

The following is excerpts are The Gender Trap.

By Peter Wherrett

Sexuality

"Most crossdressers claim to be heterosexual. That is to say most emphatically they are not homosexual. Not that there's anything wrong with that as Jerry Seinfeld would say. But it is an important and significant issue with the female partners of crossdressers. When the significant others of crossdressers learn of the partners desires it is almost inevitable that it will be the first question asked and despite the fact that the couple have very likely had an entirely satisfactory sexual relationship up to that moment....."

Relationships..

"Relationships between crossdressers and their significant others are very commonly fraught with complications. In so far as wives are concerned a survey taken a few years ago indicated about 20% of women accepted their partner's crossdressing, 30% were ambivalent and 50% were opposed.....Interestingly those women who discovered or were informed about the proclivities were very often more upset and angry at the secret rather than the fact....."

Personal Accounts by others.....

"After learning my soon to be boyfriend...was a crossdresser, I sought to educate myself right away through observation, asking questions and reading. As I observed my boyfriend throughout time I began to realize that I had a very unique relationship that few women have the pleasure of experiencing....."

Body Image....

"Its not too hard to modify the body to give a more effective and realistic appearance of the female. There are at least three ways of enhancing breasts or at least the appearance of breasts. Most men have soft pectorals which can be taped to produce cleavage, so important if one is to wear something low cut.....and ...one thing women envy about crossdressers. Usually they have great legs....."

Self Perception

"Its not about gender or sexuality. Its about life itself. It's a spiritual thing. We are given only part of what we need to be whole.....and the average crossdresser walks and moves like a man. Sorry girls, true.....Such men have not learned to free up the inner girl, to give her free reign over usually controlled male emotions....."
